SARBLED STORIES ABOUT MISS JEWETT-RICHARD MANSFIELD IN PHILADELPHIA.

story published yesterday gave what appeared to a garbled and exaggerated version of the proal mischances of the well-known actress, Miss Sara Jevett. Soon after A. M. Palmer's retirement from the managership of the Union Square Theatre Jewett left the theatie where her chief triumphs won. She has since been unfortunate chiefly in ard to the companies with which she has engaged her-eil, and for several years past has not been seen in New-York. She has, however, always trusted somewhat to her pen, and her literary work has latterly increased in volume despite her fragile health. Those who know her best, including A. M. Palmer, who has lways maintained friendly relations with his former leading woman, deny that to their knowledge Miss Jewett has ever been or is now addicted to the use of morphine. Mr. Palmer said yesterday:

The article is not only cruel and unnecessary, supposing even that the facts were true, but it bristle with misstatements. Miss Jewett is not in the city-pover gave her a check for $150 as alleged, and though she is in ill health I hope she will soon be able to resume the practice of her profession. I am told that Mr. Aldrich did not, as further alleged, offer her and engagement, and has, indeed, no personal acquaintance with her. Miss Jewett is a clever, intellectual and refined woman, and that is all that can be said it is generally conceded to be due to several causes, the fact that as played by so distinguished an actor as Lester Wailack the play has latterly proved but half aftractive to the public being among the chief. Mr. Haworth, too, is thought at present hardly well enough known outside of New-York to star successfully without a strong new play and energetic management. Private advices from Philadelphia state that Richard Mansfield's first appearance there on Monday evening in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" was marked by an instant success. The house was crowded in every part and the actor was most enthustastically received, being recalled again and again at the close of the third act, while the cultain was gepeatedly raised at the end of the play. The business that will be done during his two weeks' stay is likely to be altogether out of the ordinary.

The speedy abandonment of the tour of "Resedule," in which Joseph Haworth assumed the principal part, was a matter of ne surprise in the theatrical profession.

Colonel McCaull has no reason to complain of the fictioness of the New-York public. Having once taken a fancy to "Rellman" they have continued to crowd Wallack's Theatre throughout its run there and during this, its last week, the audiences have been larger than usual. De Wolf Horper's topical song grows funnier as well as longer every evening, and the antics of the two bears are as accobatically amusing as ever.

18 MRS. PARAN STEVENS " FEROCIOUS"? MR. MELCHER DECLARES POSITIVELY THAT SHE IS COMMENTS ON HER PROCEDURE.

application of Mrs. Paran Stevens to remove he on-in-law, John L. Melcher, and her brother-in-law, Charles G. Stevens, from their places as trustees and executors under the will of her husband caused much comment yesterday, although it has been a perfectly iliar fact among a great many people in New-York, Boston and other places where Mrs. Stevens is well known that her relations with her son-in-law and her brother-in-law have long been of the most acrimonious and hostile character.

Stevens, brother of Paran Stevens, lives in Clinton, Mass. Mrs. Paran Stevens has constantly taken a view of his duties wholly at variance that held by Mr. Stevens, and she has made fre ment visits since the death of Paran Stevens to Clinton, in order to confer with her brother-in law about his man ent of the estate. Her relations with her son-in law, Mr. Melcher, have been marked by many differences of opinion and many angry disputes. Litigation has been threatened again and again, and was at one time act on foot in the courts of Massachusetts, while papers were drawn for use in the courts of New-York. The quarrel between the widow and the executors has assumed such proportions in the application to the Surate that any peaceful settlement does not seem to be

Mrs. Paran Stevens was at Newport yesterday. A TRIBUNE reporter endeavored to see Mr. Meleber, but he showed a disposition to avoid talking on the subject at any length. His son, who was seen by the reporter in his office at No. 170 Broadway, said that Mr. Meleber did not wish to forestall his case in court by making any statement at present. It is understood that he accuses. Mrs. Stevens, whom he characterizes as "fercelous," with being actuated by a spirit of revenge for a suit which he and Charles O, Stevens had brought against her to make her account for sums of money belonging to the estate which she has, they maintain, wrongfully appropriated. He admits that he locked her out of his house, but says he "had to "on account of her "ferceity," as she had repeatedly pummelled him—once beating him over the head with an unobrella, another time striking him in the thest and breaking all the cigars in his waist-coat pockets, and on a third occasion selving an ink hottle with intent to throw it at him, but repeating of this design and hurling strong languages at him instead. He also says that neither he nor Mr. Stevens have ever entered into any litigation except what she has forced upon them.

PRESIDENT OF THE LIEDERKRANZ TEN TIMES. The Liederkranz Society held its annual election last night at the club house, No. 111 East Fifty-eighth-st. ere was a large attendance and several tickets were in the field. The compliment of a tenth election was paid to William Steinway. By the society's constitution no one can serve as president two years in succession, but Mr. Steinway's popularity has made it a pleasure to the club to elect him every other year since he first served. Paul Goepel and Dr. J. H. Sen or were elected vice-presidents; Justus F. Poggenburg, treasurer; Jacques Schmitz, corresponding secretary; and Charles Plock, recording secretary.

SENSIBLE COLUMBIA SOPHOMORES.

THEY DECIDE TO DO NO MORE RUSHING.

PRESIDENT BARNARD WRITES ABOUT THE FACUL-TY'S DIFFICULTY IN STOPPING THE EVIL. The class of '90 in Columbia College held its first class meeting as a sophomore class yesterday, and began the year by passing resolutions abolishing the custom of rushing in the college. President Herbert Mapes called the meeting to order, and without going through the regular form of business the class considered the subject of rushing. Charles T. B. Rowe offered a resolution which was seconded by W. B. Southard, and which after it had

The antienties of this college and of our earlier in general hope for a cliance, with a "relies of barbarism," and are card, in what are termed by the "relies of barbarism," and the second of the second of the upper classmen in neiting the two second of the second of the upper classmen in neiting the two second of effecting anything, be it therefore Researched. That the sophomore class of Columbia College hereby refuse to enter any rush with the freshmen. This is most emphatically to be understood, not as an exhibition of cowardice, as our record in the rushes of last year proves the direct opnection but that we recognize the fact that it would be of benefit to all concerned as well as to the fair name of Columbia and to her students and alumn in general to discountinus these practices and that the class of '90, having won the annual rush with the class of '90, is in a position where she can take this stand without any fear of her purposes being impagned or doubbel.

As a necessary consequence of this resulation engage in the custemary rush, the members of the class of '90, in class meeting assembled, acree that they will in no way interfere with the employer of the reshman class requisiting however, that all demonstrations of this resolution. The resolutions awakened sharp discussion, and speeches were made on both sides of the question. Among those who were strongest in support of the resodiscussed in every possible light and then a vote was called. A third count was necessary for decision, when it was discovered that the vote stood 23 to 20 in favor of

While the sophomores were holding their meeting, the freshmen met in the Brekingham Hotel. Two of the juniors were present, and after Victor Mapes had been elected chairman they made strong speeches urging the freshmen to challenge the sophomores. Remembering their own defeat at the hands of '90, the representatives of '89 did their best to infuse a warlike spirit into the freshmen, and succeeded in getting the youths to agree to allowing '89 to challenge '90 for them. After the meeting, when they heard what action '90 had taken in regard to the rash, a decided difference of opinion prevailed, and a class-meeting will be held to-day to consider the resolution as set forth by the class of '90. President Barnard was greatly pleased with the action city who had expressed the opinion that college ruises our to be prevented by college authorities;

DEAR SIR: I amin receipt of your letter of yesterday calling my attention to the great evil of what are called college "ruisies." I am quite as sensible as you can be of the magnitude of this evil, but promably more deeply impressed than you are with the difficulty of preventing it. I have used every effort of persuasion in my power to discourage this practice, and when these scenes of violence were attempted on the college ground I interfered personally and exposed myself to actual danger in the effort to separate the contestants. Last year and perhaps the year before, the young men had the seven of their condict at a distance from the college, and in a place wholly beyond our jurisdiction. You mention that as one of the aggravations of the evil, and as a special reason why the college authorities should interfere to prevent it; but practically it certainly takes the matter completely out of our southol. It was very much so when the struggles occurred on the college greenid, for when the offence was universal it could only be dealt with by disciplining entire classes; that is to say, by methods which wend outrage the sense of justice on the part of all the parents.

Horizor remarked that "you cannot indict a whole methods which would outrage the sense of justice of the part of all the parents.

Burke remarked that "you cannot indiet a whole people," and I do not see how you can subject a whole college to censure without heting censured vourself. If there were ringleaders in such cases, and if we could discover the ringleaders, we could deal with them; out college authorities have no power to compel testimony and in accordance with the unwritten law of colleges, etudents themselves will refuse to testify if called ou, and will be justified in their refusal by their companions, and not only that, but by their parents and by the community.

Waile, therefore, I have every disposition and desire to suppress this and every other evil practice in college, and though the entire faculty are in accordance with me upon this point, I am compelled to deny the justice of the assumptions which are so often made by people talking upon this subject, that it is in our power to control these pernicious practices. I shall nevertheless do all that I can to prevent the occurrence of similar collisions this year.

Whether the death of the young man referred to in your letter was occasioned by injuries received in the case rush of last year I have no means of knowing; but such accidents are not necessary to convince me of their danger and of the injury which they cause to the good name of the college.

THE REPORTS ABOUT YOUNG CHOATE. C. C. BEAMAN THINKS THEY ARE EXAGGERATED-

NO NEWS HERE ABOUT THE CASE. C. C. Beaman, of the law firm of Evarts, Choate & Beaman, said yesterday that nothing had been heard at the firm's office in Wall-st. of the condition of Mr. Choate's son, who is now dangerously ill in Stockbridge, Mass. Young Choate had been hazed at Williams College and was taken home, according to dispatches from Williamstown and Pittsfield to the New-York papers, threatened with brain fever and insanity. Mr. Beaman said that the reports about the matter were probably greatly exaggerated. Mr. Choate had been called to Stockbridge not by the injuries done to his son George at Williams College, but by the serious illness of his mother, who for some days was thought to be on the point of dying. Mr. Choate's brother, Dr. George C. S. Choate, has also gone to Stockbridge to be at his mother's deathped. Dr. William H. Draper, the family physician, Mr Beaman thought, had gone along with Joseph H. and Dr. George C. S. Choate to treat the young man's grandmother, not to look after the boy himself. Young Choate's presence at Stockbridge at this consultation may have given some additional color to the reports of brutalities inflicted upon him at Williams College, and of his return home shattered in body and mind. Young George Choate, it was said further, had been back from college for ten days and it was probable that if any serious trouble had happened to him the news of it if any serious trouble handappeter office here. Nothing had been heard of the hazing, to the knowledge of the partners here, either before Mr. Choate's departure for Stockbridge or since.

Mr. Beaman said that he knew young George only slightly. He was a nervous boy and highly sensitive, but was not subject to melancholis as far as Mr. Beaman bush.

Mr. Choale's town house, No. 50 West Forty-seventh-st. has not been opened yet for the winter. Only the housekeeper is in charge. She said yesterday that all the members of the Cheate family were in Stockbridge.

BAYARD'S "OUT-OF-JOINT COMMISSION." From an Interview with Congressman Cogswell in The Boston

Knowing the feeling which exists throughout the VIIth Congressional District, a representative of The Journal called upon General Cogswell to obtain his opinion on the proposed method of settlement [of the fisheries dispute]. He said, in response to the first question of his visitor: "What is your opinion of the appointment of Messers, Putnam and Angeli to the High Joint Commission on the Fisheries!"

"From their reputation I have no doubt of the ability and character of the gentlemen you refer to, but I don't knew what you mean by the Joint Commission on the Fisheries."

"From their reputation I have no doubt of the ability and character of the gentlemen you refer to, but I don't knew what you mean by the Joint Commission on the Fisheries."

"Has not a Joint Commission on the Fisheries been appointed by our Government and Great Britain!"

"There may have been but I don't see the 'Joint.' It is difficult to know just what has been done. The Queen agys: 'I have agreed with the President of the United States to refer to a joint commission the difficult question respecting the North American usheries, which have recently been discussed,' and Mr. Chamberlain is termed the 'Principal High Commissioner, who says he is coming here, and in conjunction with Sir John Macdonald is going to protect the interests of Canada, and he says further that the Home Government has ceded to Canada full independence except in the matter of fereign relations, and in that it is always in duty bound to back up the Canadian view; so here we have a statement from one of the parties that the English Commissioners are a part of a joint commission to settle the fisheries question. Now where is the authority for Mr. Bayard to complete the joint by the appointment of Commissioners from our side to settle! None whatever that I can discover. He may appoint or select agents, attorneys, counsel, sic., to assist, advise and inform him on matters obtaining to his department, but to appoint Commissioners to sit in a joint commission, such as Great Britain claims has been appointed, where is his authority? Such Commissioners on our side would have no authority to agree to anything, to bind anybody, or evan to summon witnesses or administer oaths, or do anything alse that I can see. The Executive has power to make a treaty, by and with the advice of two-thirds of the Senate; but this scheme purports to be a combination, one part of which has power to act and the other part no power at all, and I don't know what to call it better than 'an out-of-joint commission, when you consider that the United States Senate, by an airo

The trial of the Rev. Charles W. Millen, paster of the Washington Street Methodist Episcopal Church in Brooklyn, upon charges of conduct unbecoming a minister and a Christian, will take place to-day. Presiding Elder B. M. Adams, and a committee of seven of his fellow ministers in the New-York East Conference, will conduct the proceedings, which will be held in secret. The accusations against Mr. Millen are of improper conduct with women in his Millen are of improper conduction in two churches in Brooklyn, and in congregations in two churches in Brooklyn, and in Haverhill, Mass., and also of improper conduct in this city and Boston last summer. A number of witnesses have been summoned and some startling testimony

Mr. Millen and his friends are confident that his character will pass unscathed through the ordeal. If the charges against him be sustained by the committee, his will be suspensed by the presiding either until the meeting of the Conference next spring, when he will have to be tried by that body. If convicted, he can appeal to the General Conference, which also meets next year. The proceedings excite much aftention in Methodist circles in Brooklyn, where no Methodist minister has been tried by his poers for many years. The police and citizens of Union Hill, N. J., are preparing to give the Anarchiese a warm reception this evening should they attempt to hold another meeting. Fifty special officers are said to have been sworn in and detachments of them will be on guard in front of every hall in the town. The Board of Common Council have determined that they will at once revoke the license of any liquor dealer who permits his prem ises to be used by the Anarchists. The Anarchists announce their determination to hold the meeting at all hazards. Blood will certainly be spilled should the attempt be made. A deliegation of Anarchists from this city yesterday went to He-boken and called on a firm of well-known lawyers for the purpose of having them taxe charge and defend the three men who are now awaiting trial for participating in the rist of Sunday. They were unsuccessful, however.

A number of Socialists and sympathizers with the condenned Chicage Anarchists in this city will go to Union Hill to-night to the meeting to protest against the execution of the men. THE TELEGRAPH DEAL STILL DARK. NO TRANSFER TO THE WESTERN UNION YET-

TURN MAY BRING THINGS TO A HEAD. Reports that the Baltimore and Ohio telegraph line were about to be absorbed by the Western Union Company have been revived in Wall Street recently, and yesterday a statement was published that the terms had been agreed upon and that Jay Gould had Instructed Dr. Norvin Green, president of the Western Union, to sign the contract with J. Pierpont Morgan as the representative of the syndicate which agreed to lean the Ealtimore and Ohlo Rallroad $10,000,000 to relieve it from financial embarrassment. The fact that the annual election of the New-York corporation of the Baltimore and Ohio Telegraph occurred yesterday was supposed to support the rumor and the return of President Robert Carrett, who sailed from Europe on Saturday, was accepted as further proof of their correctness. It has been generally admitted, since Baltimore and Ohio telegraph system would fall into the hands of the Western Union Company, although of an immediate accomplishment of this plan, even if an agreement about terms had been reached. The last sterling mortgage made by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad included the telegraph property and naturally it would take some time to arrange new security for the loan, so that the telegraph might be separated that this difficulty has been overcome, but the recent advance in Western Umon stock has encouraged the helicf that all obstacles have been nearly removed. The question of price is believed to have been settled some time ago, although exact information about the terms has not yet leaked out.

some time ago, although exact information about the terms has not yet leaked out.

The persons who presumably know the present conditions of the reported bargain were unwilling to discuss it yesterday. Jay Gould professed ignorance and George J. Gould aid that all he knew about the matter he had learned from the rumors in Wall Street. Dr. Norvin Green was too busily engaged to be disturbed, and Russell Sage said that it was still a matter for negotiation. At the office of Drexel, Morgan & Co., it was remarked that Vali Street sometimes learned things before they happened. President D. H. Bates, of the Baitimore and Ohlo Telegraph Company, secinded himself from all inquirers. A friend of Robert Garrett's said that it was not at all certain that the price even had been agreed upon.

"Mr. Garrett is on his way to this country," he continued, "and it must be remembered that he is still president of the Baitimore and Ohlo Railroad, and that he and his friends own it. He probably consented to the sale of the telegraph and other subsidiary properties, but, of course, not on any terms that might be offered. I doubt whether anything with be decided before his arrivat."

At the annual meeting of the New York corporation, which was a merciay formal proceeding, the following with the decided in the sale of the report of the Row York corporation, which was a merciay formal proceeding, the following by the company. To-day a number of the employes who regarded themselves as fixtures, were informed that heir services would no longer be required, and others have had their pay cut down. The pruning knife has en pretty thoroughly used, and few have escaped it. No resignations have yet been received, but several heads of criments, whose salaries have been materially reduced, declare that they will not submit to change.

In referring to the rumored sale of the line, a prominent letegraph official, who is connected with another company, said to-day: "There has been a prolonged movement on the part of certain interested gentiament to form a powerful symilicate to get control of the telegraph system. A committee is at work examining the plant, and the company is trying to make a good showing for the benefit of the committee. The scheme afoot contemplates, or did, an alliance between the United Lines, the Postai Company and the Baltimore and Ohio.

A WELCOME FOR JUDGE MAGUIRE.

HIS HEARTY DECEPTION AT THE ANTI-POVERTY FAIR

-PREDICTING SUCCESS.

Judge Maguire, of San Francisco, who has come here to battle for Mr. George in this State, had no here to battle for Mr. George in this State, had no reason to complain of his recoption at the Anti-Poverty society's Fair in Madison Square Garden last evening. It was only second to that given to Dr. McGiyini on the occasion of his firtieth birthday last week. There was an unusually large attendance and the inferior of the building appeared almost as attractive as the pretty young women who attended the tailor. There were few formal exercisions observed. Miss Munier's class sang in a spirited way several of the most popular campaign songs.

Mr. Croasdale introduced Judge Maguire, who was received with great aplause. His speech was brief but effective. He culogized Dr. McGlynn and brief but effective. He culogized Ir. McGiyan and Mr. George and spoke confidently of the Labor party's success this year. The address was cheered again and again so that by the time he had finished the general opinion seemed to be that the Judge was to be ranked among the first class speakers of the party. The fair was well affended. If everything goes on as well as it is at present, the managers believe that they will clear $25,000 despite the wet weather last week. Mr. Biaine continues to lead in the vote for the Presidential candidates. At 10 o'clock last night the list stood as follows: Blaine, 553; George, 175; Hill, 140; Powderly, 25; Cleveland, 25.

DINNER TO ADMIRAL VIGNES. NewPort.Oct. 4 (Special). - A dinner was given last evening on board the flagship Richmond by Rear-Admiral Luce in honor of Admiral Vignes, of the French Navy, who is here in his flagship, the Minerve. Officers were dresse in special full drain uniforms, and during the dinner the Richmond's band played some select music. Admiral David D. Porter was present. Admiral Porter and Ad-miral Vignes were received over the vessel's gaugway with the usual naval nonors due their rank.

A BIG EVANGELICAL CONFERENCE CALLED. A general conference of all Evangelical Christians in the United States has been called by some of the most prominent Christian workers in the country. It is to be held in Washington on December 7, 8 and 9, under the direction of the Evangelical Alliance for the United States. Its objects will be to discover the perils that threaten the Christian Church, whether they can be met by a hearty co-operation of Evangelical interests, and what are the nest means to secure such co-operation. Among those who have signed the call are the Rev Dr. Huward Cresby, Bishop, Joan F. Hurst, William E. Dodge, the Rev. Josiah Strong, General O. O. Howard, the Rev Dr. R. S. WALKING ON THE WATER.

From The Pittiburg Chronicle.

Captain Paul Boyton, the swimmer, appeared in a new role yesterday and walked on the Aligheny River, auch to the autonishment of the multitude which gathered to watch the feat. It is certain that so multitude ever saw such feet—in fact, it saw little else than feet, and from their size it is rather a wender that he accomplished the feat of walking from a point a little above the Union to the Seventh-st bridge. A couple of hundred boats accompanied the pedestrian on his journey. There were beats of all kinds, but it was the steam vessels which gave him the most trouble by stirring up the water until it made rather a hazardous promenade for the Captalo. He walked along, however, like a barefooted boy in a stubble-field, and chached the end of his journey without mishap. Then he put on a rubber suit and with a small cance paddle propelled himself down the river.

COMMON PLEAS COURT FEES.

A DEFICIENCY REPORTED BY THE COMMISSIONERS OF ACCOUNTS-FANCY CERTIFICATES. The Commissioners of Accounts have made their report to the Mayor of the accounts and methods of the Court of Common Pleas, of which Nathaniel Jarvis, jr., is clerk. They find that the books are not well kept, not having been written up for some time. The naturalization Bureau is strongly criticised. The Bureau is in charge of two clerks, Charles Underwood O'Connell and John H. Loos, each of whom receives $2,500 a year. There is a third clerk, Joseph H. Brown, who receives no salary, although performing a large part of the clerical work. His work is thus described in the report:

"Mr. Brown has on hand blank certificates of naturalization of various degrees of artistic merit; and, if a newly sworn supporter of the Constitution desires a work of art to attest his citizenship, Mr. Brown can and will accommodate him, at prices ranging from one to three and a half dollars. As the certificate furnished by the Court for fifty cents is a very ordinary affair (C), and as Mr. Brown takes charge of the citizen immediately after he is sworn, quite a number of artistic certificates find their way into circulation, thereby resulting matehope, advancing the æsthetic education of our newly made fellow citizens. It is likely that seventy-five per cent of those naturalized take Mr. Brown's certificates, and they will average $1.50 each for Mr. Brown, or something like $9,000 per year. It is claimed that the case. It may be suggested that the presence, under the above circumstances, of a person not an officer of the Court who performs elerical duty in the Naturalization administration. It is also questionable whether the acts of such a clerk are legal."

The clerks in the Bureau have no idea of the number of persons naturalized through them. They said when asked that there were about 3,000 certificates of naturalization issued in 1886. The actua asked that there were about 3,000 certificates of naturalization issued in 1896. The actual figures showed that there were 5,769. The receipts of the office are fees of three amounts, as follows: Twenty cents for certificate of declaration; fifty cents for a certificate of naturalization of a person who has two years previously declared his intention, and seventy cents for a certificate of naturalization to a person who came to the United States before he was eligiteen years of age.

The result of this examination of the Naturalization Bureau shows that between the amount returned to the Controller for fees and the amount received as computed from the original vouchers on file, there is a difference of $334.97 in 1896 and a difference of $15 for the h if year ending July 1, 1887, or in all a deflect of $399.97. This result is, however, subject to two modifications: First-lit is to be increased by the amount received for duplicates of naturalizations and of declarations, which are used in other courts and for which there are no vouchers. The ascertainable difference makes the net deficit for 1886, 402.37, and for 1887, $27.10. Secondly—It is subject to decrease by the number of declarations and naturalizations for which there are no vouchers. The ascertainable difference makes the net deficit for 1886, 402.37, and for 1887, $27.10. Secondly—It is subject to decrease by the number of declarations and naturalizations for which there are no vouchers.

Mr. Jarvis, when his attention was called to the report, sent for each clerk in the Naturalization Bureau and informed him that the books and accounts must be brought up to date in order that the amount of the deficiency, if any can be exactly ascertained. He said later in the day that until this was done, and he knew just what the deficiency was, he preferred to say little. The working of the Bureau, he said, was open to the inspection of everyone. The i-sung of fancy certificates, he said the said to frame their certificates, and for such the illuminated ones were r

CALLING OF THE IRISH ENVOYS.

MAPPING OUT THEIR ROUTE-TO INCLUDE THE SOUTH-A BIG RECEPTION TO-NIGHT.

The time of Sir Thomas Esmonde and Arthur O'Con-or, the two Irish envoys whom Parnell has sent over to advocate the cause of nome Rule for Ireland, was occupied during the greater part of yesterday in replying to callers and receiving sympathizing visits from the prominent Irish-Americans both of this city and Brooklyn. first caller of any note was John Barry, member of Parliament for one of the divisions of County who is here on private business. John McCarthy, secre-League, has received a promise from Mr. Barry to lect-ure on Sunday evening for the benefit of the branch in Breevort Hall, in East Fifty-fourth-st. John P. Sution of Nebraska, secretary of the Irish National League of America, was with the two members all day arranging for the course of speeches they are going to deliver in the principal cities where the Irish population is large. New Jersey is included in the programme this time, some of the chief Pennsylvania towns outside of Philadelphia, and, of course, such places as Roston, Buffalo, Baltimore, Chicago and St. Louis. Mr. Sutton says that the South has been altogether neglected hitherto, out the field will be covered this time. Mr. O'Connor called upon Father Riordan during the day and was shown through Castle Garden. Then John P. Lynch, of the Home Rule Club, took the two Irish members for a drive through Central Park. General MeMahon and Commissioner Colemna accompanied them. In the evening the same Fatty went to the Madison Square Theatre. Afterward Mr. Lynch entertained the Irish visitors and adozen personal friends at a private supper party.

The arrangements for the big reception in Cooper Union this evening are now complete. Charles A. Dana will preside, and among those who will deliver speeches besides the two visitors are ex-Judge Noah Davis. Governor Biggs, of Delaware; General Roger A. Pryor, Father Doherty, of St. Moulca's, and Congressman Cex. of Nebraska, secretary of the frish National League of

JOHN B. FINCH.

Bosron, Oct. 4. - John B. Finch, chairman of the Ex-ecutive Committee of the National Prohibition Party, died suddenly last night in the Eastern Dapot of heart disease. He had been in Lynn during the evening addressing a Prohibition meeting and was taken ill on his way to the city. Mr. Finch was born in Chenango County, New-York, on March 17, 1852. He received a classical and legal education, and at one time was principal of Union School, Smyrna, N. Y. Having joined the Good Templars in his youth he filled several of the high offices in the order. After doing a good deal of temperance work in New-York he went to Nebraska in 1877, where he entered at once upon the temperance agitation, which he continued to the time of his death. In recent years he was closely identified with the Prohibition movement, taking an active part in campaigns in all parts of the country. He was married in 1876. disease. He had been in Lynn during the evening ad

EXPORT RATE COMPLICATIONS NOT SETTLED. The sub-committee of the trunk lines and the Central Traffic Association, appointed to consider the question of export freight rates, met at Commissioner Fink's of-fice yesterday, there being a good attendance. The in-land rates were restored to the tariff figures a couple of weeks ago and the committee strove to agree upon a new basis of through export rates which would be perma-nent. Since the researcation it has been freely charged that rates were still out and it has been admitted that there were outstanding numerous contracts at low rates, which would have to be executed. Some of these are said to run into next February. There was a prolonged discussion of these questions, but it resulted in no action. The committee will endeavor to accomplish something at another meeting later. of export freight rates, met at Commissioner Fink's of-
